CULT GEMS

JANIS PROVVISOR JEWELRY Multicolor tourmalines mixed with pearls and 22-karat-gold beads; strands of pearls paired with pieces of coral, antique turquoise, and citrine: Janis Provisor's whimsical combinations of gems and beads are the hot collectible among an equally eclectic group of New York tastemakers. The thing is, these pieces—which range from $1,600 to $4,800—are being sold only to those who know the contact. Here it is. Debi Wisch at Fort Street Studio, 212-925-5383 partner, Douglas Abraham. The two met while working for Ralph Lauren and bonded over turquoise, tourmalines, and their passion for tigereye everything.

HONK IF YOU LOVE CHIC

OZOCARS Billing itself as an ecoluxury car service, the OZOcar fleet consists of 76 hybrid vehicles (Priuses and Lexuses) in various sizes. Each is tricked out with an Apple iBook, high-speed Internet connection, and satellite radio. Debuting in New York this fall before going global (next stop: London, Chicago, Los Angeles, Washington, D.C., Berlin, and Madrid), OZOcar isn't only the smarter choice, it's miles more stylish. 866-696-5966; www.ozocar.com

NUTS FOR COCO

MARC JACOBS HANDBAG When Jacobs adds his signature hardware and handles to quilted leather handbags à la Chanel, the result can only be a new, classic must-have. $1,200; 212-924-6126

DUNGAREE DELUXE

PRADA DENIM Miuccia Prada's latest fix is denim—jackets, shirts, and jeans in every wash from dark blue to gray—with cuts as simple and understated as her color scheme ($295–$695). 888-977-1900

THE COLOR PURPLE

ALEX HITZ TIE As a way to accent the return of the dull suit—brown, black, and pinstripe—men are pursuing color in their ties (and lives), such as this one from Alex Hitz ($150). 800 Fifth Ave., New York; 212-744-7685
